PRESIDENT'S NOTES

The regular monthly meeting of the Palm Beach Community College District Board of Trustees was held March 17 at Central Campus.

In presentations on College programs, Vice President of Workforce Development/Central Campus Provost John Schmiederer presented a project update on PBCC's workforce development transition.

Of the seven joint Board recommendations, one of the most innovative, the educational warranty, is currently being established with the Partnership Council. The educational warranty guarantees that students out of Post Secondary Adult Vocational programs will be trained in the skills necessary for success in the workforce and provides for additional retraining if graduates do not perform the skills established by the countywide Business Partnership Council.

In other presentations, South Campus CPI Coordinator Lourdes Rey spoke on the Center for Personalized Instruction's current programs, stating it is equipped with state of the art computers and software thanks to the Quantum Foundation grant and that the English as a Second Language (ESOL) program is now well under way with eight approved courses.

South Campus Senior Instructor Tunjarnika Coleman-Ferrell spoke on PBCC's partnership with Florida Atlantic University and the Palm Beach County School System to implement a seamless program for "home growing" the county's teachers through Genesis. The program targets possible teachers as early as elementary school and guides them through PBCC and/or FAU in a five-year program that results in a master's degree and a job guarantee with the county's school system. PBCC has already received a $250,000 grant to support its role in the project.

In other business, the Board approved amending District Board of Trustees rule 6Hx-18-4.44 to allow PBCC to maximize certain gifts made to the College by passing them through the Foundation for uses to benefit the College.

The District Board of Trustees will hold its next regular monthly meeting April 14, 5:30 p.m. at the Eissey Campus, Meldon Lecture Hall, BB Building.

NEW TRUSTEES ANNOUNCED

On February 24, Gov. Jeb Bush announced recommendations for appointment of four new members to the Palm Beach Community College District Board of Trustees. The recommended appointees are Susan Baumel, Jorge Dominicus, Jim Watt and Carolyn Williams.

Susan Baumel, attorney with the Boca Raton firm of Hodgson Russ Andrews Woods and Goodyear, is a graduate of Florida State University's College of Law and earned an advanced law degree from the University of Miami. She is a trustee of the Ronald McDonald House Charities. Also, she was named Palm Beach County's outstanding attorney of the year by South Florida Magazine and Price Waterhouse.

Jorge Dominicus of West Palm Beach is vice president of Florida Crystals Corporation. Dominicus graduated from Miami-Dade Community College and Florida International University and was a student member of the Postsecondary Education Planning Commission. He recently served as chairman of the Palm Beach County Workforce Development Board, assisting with issues related to PBCC's expanding role in workforce training. Dominicus is also a member of the board of directors of United Way of Palm Beach County.

Jim Watt of Palm Beach Gardens is an attorney with Steel Hector and Davis. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Miami and law degree from the University of Florida. Watt is former city attorney for the City of West Palm Beach and served in the Florida House of Representatives. He is a member and former director of the Northern Palm Beaches Chamber of Commerce, serves on the Palm Beach County Sports Commission and is a Vaughn-Jordan Foundation trustee.

Carolyn Williams, director of supplier diversity and outreach for the South Florida Water Management District since 1989, is a resident of West Palm Beach and a graduate of the University of South Florida. She was appointed by the governor to the Regional Coordinating Council for Vocational and Adult Education (predecessor to the Workforce Development Board) and was chair of the Palm Beach County Criminal Justice Juvenile Justice and Education Task Force.

PBCC President Dennis P. Gallon said, "I am certain that our new trustees will help our institution reach its full potential, including implementing the workforce development system that the business community has supported during the past year. These new trustees have a wonderful background in business and community support and will bring a new perspective to our issues."

Bush's recommendations were submitted to the Cabinet for approval at its March 9 meeting. Following approval by the Cabinet, they will be submitted to the Florida Senate for confirmation. The new trustees are expected to take their seats in April.

PBCC's four new Board members will join current trustee J. Max Davis. The other current trustees, Chair Harry A. Johnston, Vice Chair Elaine Johnson James, Ann Marie Rezzonico and Homer J. Hand, will serve until the Senate confirms the new appointments.

Dr. Gallon and staff expressed their appreciation for the service of the existing trustees. "This College is one of the leaders in this state in providing two-year degrees which articulate into the university system and degrees and certificates which prepare students to enter the workforce. The trustees should be proud of their involvement in efforts that are being lauded throughout the state as the best practices," he said.

PBCC CELEBRATES DIVERSITY WEEK

Palm Beach Community College will celebrate its first Diversity Week April 5-9 to promote awareness of the rich diversity of its community.

Events on each of PBCC's four campuses will highlight 'students and employees' personal backgrounds, including race, gender, ethnicity, religion and disability. These include ethnic food and showcases, storytelling, individual speakers and panel discussions, dancing, art and much more.

A student-coordinated "Show of Multicultural Fashions" is the week's finale. The show, which takes place April 9 from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Central Campus Duncan Theatre, features fashions modeled by audience members, students and PBCC personnel as well as entertainment including Spanish, Indian and folk-influenced dance and song.

Events are scheduled for the following days and locations:

CASH MANAGEMENT SEMINAR

Linda Okerstrom, VALIC representative, will host a financial seminar titled "Cash Management" on April 13, 1999 from 2:30-4:00 p.m. in the Central Campus Faculty Lounge.

Kay Magura from VALIC's Center for Retirement Education in Houston, TX will do the presentation in conjunction with a series of financial talks being held for those in higher education in the Palm Beach/Broward area.

The seminar will cover many areas, including such topics as:

- cash flow statements
- financial goals
- gathering and storing financial information
- funding education
- debt management
- forecasting future tax liability
- strategies for saving
- emergency cash reserves
- financial planning tools

There will be an opportunity for questions.

Packets will be given to each attendee that contain a variety of useful tools. Included is a financial organizer, a 98-page in-depth workbook that will enable you to organize and apply what you will learn in the seminar.

Please note that VALIC will present a general information seminar and will not endorse their product. (Nor does PBCC endorse VALIC over other vendors).
